I purchased satellite radio so that I could listen to music without commercial interruption.

At first, friends, relatives and even I questioned my sanity to pay for something that I was already getting free. But in this part of Ohio, I am too far away from the big city markets to hear the music I like with regularity. Along with the fact that when I can listen to those stations I have counted upwards of 8 minutes of continuous commercials, choosing satellite radio turned out to be a no-brainer.

Having the ability to choose what I want to listen to with the clarity I receive now is well worth the money I spent.

I look forward to any and all new programming that satellite radio is able to give it's customers, including the traffic and weather. On many trips I would have liked to have known ahead what kind of traffic situation I was about to come upon without having to scan the radio and be at that particular station when the traffic report was given.

I would like to see the FCC reject the NAB's petition 04-160 and let the satellite radio stations make a good thing better.
